SHAPE THE FUTURE OF THE SUPPLY CHAIN PROFESSION.

What is the APICS community?

The APICS community is a global network of supply chain and operations management professionals and resources to help individuals succeed in their professions. APICS academic professional members are dedicated to elevating their fields and educating future supply chain leaders. Thought leaders like you help define and empower the industry while gaining access to the latest research and publications available from APICS.

What do I get when I join?

Access. From research reports and folios to job postings and social networks, APICS offers you access to thousands of online and local resources. Help your students get to the next level in their education while adding to your professional skill set. Discover new research opportunities through the APICS Foundation. Stay current on industry trends and topics with APICS magazine, research reports and folios. Connect with your colleagues around the world on the APICS Supply Chain Channel. With APICS, the possibilities are endless.

How can I join?

It's simple. View our full list of membership benefits at apics.org/membership. To be eligible as an academic professional member, you need to be employed full-time by an accredited academic institution as a professor, dean, assistant professor, lecturer, researcher or equivalent international title. Find a local APICS partner in your area by visiting apics.org/finder. Your local APICS Chapter can help you establish a new APICS student chapter on your campus. Join APICS by visiting apics.org/join. Have questions? Call our Customer Service department at 1-800-444-2742 or +1-773-867-1777.

Make a difference.

APICS can help you showcase your experience and expertise by contributing to the body of knowledge through research, published articles, presentations and mentoring. Influence the direction of your profession and help shape future supply chain and operations management leaders. Visit apics.org/academic.
